

GOP Duel Shakes Dakota

Governor Requests
Factions To Keep Campaign Friendly

PIERRE, S. D., May 31—(AP)—Gov. Sigurd Anderson took a peacemaker role today in the no-quarter warfare between backers of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Sen. Dwight D. Eisenhower over South Dakota's 14 GOP presidential nominating votes.

In the midst of an exchange of "sneer" charges by both sides, Anderson told reporters he believed the campaign leading up to next Tuesday's primary ought to be kept on a friendly basis to avoid a Republican split in November.

"It has been a very vigorous campaign but I believe that the sneers have been more political than actual," he said.

He observed, however, that "some folks undoubtedly will be chilled off a little" if their candidate's delegate slate is defeated in this last head-on ballot test before the GOP national convention in July.

Anderson Remains Neutral

Anderson, who has remained neutral in the ding-dong presidential scrap here, disclosed he had declined an invitation from Gov. Edward F. Arn of Kansas to attend Eisenhower's homecoming festivities in Abilene, Kan., next Wednesday.

He said it was his understanding that all midwestern Republican governors—many of whom have endorsed Eisenhower—had been invited to attend. There was no discussion of the expense involved, Anderson said. He said he was too busy to go.

Arn said in Topeka, Kan., he did not promise any governors their expenses would be paid to Abilene. He added he is positive nobody else did either.

Defeat Would Hurt Taft

A defeat for Taft here might seriously damage his chances of convincing doubtful convention delegates he ought to be their choice—a circumstance that could cost him the nomination.

Eisenhower's friends here want to win to show they can break into what is regarded as Taft's strongest territory—the Midwest. They also want to demonstrate that the general is the popular choice at the ballot box, when there are no other candidates but Taft and write-ins are barred.

Actual voting will be on delegate slates to be elected in bloc, so the winner will take all 14.

UN Tanks Rake Red Positions For Nine Hours

SEOUL, Sunday, June 1—(AP)—Allied tanks and infantry blasted Communist positions on the central Korean front Saturday and withdrew to the main United Nations line after a nine-hour foray.

The Fifth Air Force reported a flight of U. S. Sabrejets, flying high above the smoky weather, shot down two Communist MIGs over northwest Korea.

In Seoul, Gen. James A. Van Fleet said his Eighth Army could make the Reds pay a "disastrous price" for any new offensive. But he expressed doubt whether the Communists would attempt a major drive—despite the threatening talk in the Panmunjom truce sessions, and elsewhere.

The U. N. tank-infantry force struck in predawn darkness west of the Pukhan river. It was a threat-pronged raid aimed at the systematic destruction of Communist bunkers. Infantrymen battled the Red defenders with hand grenades.

Van Fleet told a press conference that Communist manpower in Korea is "two and one half times" that of the United Nations. The exact strength of the U. N. forces has never been revealed, but the estimate would seem to place the Red forces at a record peak of well over one million and possibly as high as a million and a half men.

Van Fleet added that Communist artillery outnumbered U. N. artillery two to one, but is not as efficient.

The Reds "suffer for nothing for combat" and have ample supplies to launch "a major limited offensive," he said. However, he added, he does not expect an immediate Red attack in force.

Japan Police Arrest 130 After Red Riots

TOKYO, Sunday, June 1—(AP)—National Rural Police headquarters announced last night 130 persons were arrested in Friday's Communist "martyr's day" demonstrations throughout Japan.

Three demonstrators were killed and at least 33 persons injured—including 30 policemen, authorities said in a new assessment of casualties, three policemen and two demonstrators were hurt seriously.

The Reds called the demonstrations on the anniversary of a Communist outbreak two years ago on May 30.

First Wheat Of Year Arrives At The Market In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, May 31—(AP)—The first carload of 1952 wheat arrived at the Kansas City market today.

The 1,740-bushel shipment was loaded Wednesday by the Farmers Elevator in Temple, Okla. It will be checked by Kansas grain inspectors Monday before it is sold.

Ozark Parson Gives Reason For His Fast

CHERRYVILLE, Mo., May 31—(AP)—The Rev. J. J. Ivie, who says he has gone without food for 41 days, took exception today to news accounts saying he is fasting in hopes of bringing about a spiritual revival against sin and Communism.

He sent one of his six sons to nearby Steelville with the copy of a note explaining his fast. It said: "I am seeking the more perfect will of God for my own life and asking God to show me why the signs do not follow my ministry as Jesus said they would."

"I am not fasting to save the world from sin. Jesus Christ died to save the world; therefore, it is not necessary for man to die. Previous reports leave the wrong impression for which we stand and love."

The son, A. B. Ivie, delivered a copy of the note to the Steelville weekly newspaper. He said his father wrote it after reading newspaper stories of his fast.

The 57-year-old assembly of God minister was reported by his son, in his early 20s, as still holding to the fast. Ivie has been quoted in news accounts as vowing to continue it unto death, unless he received a divine message.

Young Ivie offered no explanation of the line in the note which said, "It is not necessary for man to die."

News stories relating to a spiritual revival against sin and Communism were based on recordings the pastor has made since the fast began.

Bad Weather Chills Most Central States

(By The Associated Press)

Considerable cloudiness, fog and rain chilled a major portion of the nation's mid-section Saturday on the last day of May.

The coming of June was expected to bring more showers and briefly higher winds to the Midwest. Elsewhere, fair weather and normal temperatures were slated.

The U. N. tank-infantry force struck in predawn darkness west of the Pukhan river. It was a threat-pronged raid aimed at the systematic destruction of Communist bunkers. Infantrymen battled the Red defenders with hand grenades.

Winter's Work Finally Makes Arrow Rock Tavern Look Old

ARROW ROCK, Mo., May 31—(AP)—After a lot of work, the State Park Department has made Arrow Rock Tavern look every one of its 118 years.

When you go around to buy a house or car the man tries to let you get out to make the house or car look brand spanking new. Not so the fellows who have been working on the tavern.

They've been bustling around trying to make the tavern on the old Santa Fe Trail look brand spanking old—with an eye to the safety of the guests, of course.

And now everything is just as solid as it was back in 1834 when Judge Joseph Huston built the tavern to provide rest and refreshment for the pioneers of the Santa Fe Trail.

Armistice Hinges-On Red Stand

UN Envoys Inform
Foe Their Attitude
Delays Settlement

MUNSAN, Korea, Sunday, June 1—(AP)—Allied truce delegates, unruffled by the rising crescendo of Communist propaganda protests, told the Reds Saturday that only their stubbornness delays an armistice.

Both sides agreed to meet at Panmunjom as usual today.

The United Nations negotiators rode patiently Saturday over the crest of Red protests against the recurring accidents in Allied prisoner of war camps. There were signs the Communists may soon find less to complain about.

In Seoul, Gen. James A. Van Fleet said the "tension is disappearing fast" on troubled Koje Island. Prison stockades there are being broken up into smaller compounds which will house 500 inmates each, rather than the 5,000 to 6,000-man enclosures dominated by rebellious Red prisoners.

Nam Loses Big Punch

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls, official U. N. Command spokesman, told correspondents Saturday night:

"The fact that recalcitrant Communist prisoners are being brought into line will rob Nam of some of his propaganda ammunition."

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Red delegate, protested loudly against POW riots Thursday and Friday in which nine Communist prisoners were killed. As usual, he blamed the allies, although the riots were Communist instigated.

"These are obviously deliberate provocations designed to obstruct the outcome of the question of prisoners of war and to delay armistice proceedings," Nam Il asserted, adding that the incidents were aimed "to prepare the ground for extension of the Korean war."

Harrison Doesn't Mince Words

Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr., senior Allied delegate, replied that the armistice was being delayed by "your stubborn refusal to acknowledge that the prisoners themselves have already made their voluntary decisions in the matter of repatriation."

Harrison was referring to the Allied proposal to return 70,000 Red prisoners for some 12,000 held by the Communists. Nearly 100,000 other Communist military and civilian internees have said they would forcibly resist being returned to Red rule.

The Town and Country Shoe Company has started remodeling on the old Bennett Packing Company building, northwest corner of Main and Missouri, which they plan to use as the heel covering unit and auxiliary cutting room of the local shoe factory. The work, which was started about four weeks ago, will soon be completed and the company plans to have the plant ready for operation about July 1.

The departments which will be housed in this building have been located on East Second Street. The newly leased building was cut up by walls over a foot thick, two of which have been ripped out. The outside walls, made of street brick paving, have shown little wear after 50 years.

Plans are to raise the ceiling and put in a second floor. Already a new roof has been added to the building and further changes will be completed toward the last of June. Part of the building will be used for storage space.

When the building is completed it will be a well lighted, insulated building with a sprinkling system for fire protection and a head clearance of nine feet both on the lower floor and the second story.

When completed, the building will accommodate about 50 workers in the heel covering unit.

Phoenix, Ariz., which reported a blistering 102 degrees Friday, tapered off to a 71 early Saturday. The month of May was unusually cloudy and wet in the middle west. Chicago had only nine days of sunshine.

Woman Falls Off Dock As She Greets Sailor

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 31—(AP)—The cry was "woman overboard" when four U. S. destroyers of Division 11 arrived here from Korea War service today.

Miss Norma Horowitz of Los Angeles fell into the bay in her eagerness to greet Radioman Freddie Smith of the USS Hammer.

He jumped to her rescue in the narrow space between ship and dock. They were both hoisted aboard.

Ex-Local Boy Drowns Friday In The Lake

A former Sedalia boy, Frank Forrest "Corky" Humphrey, Jr., 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Humphrey, Sr., 9310 Walnut, Kansas City, was drowned in the Lake of the Ozarks, at Twin Bays resort, about 2:15 p.m. Friday. The youth had gone swimming with a cousin, when he suddenly screamed once and disappeared below the surface in 30 feet of water.

He and his cousin were swimming about 20 feet from the bank when he went under. His cousin was unable to reach the body and it was 30 minutes before it was recovered by Sheriff Connie Wood and Louis Rhoads, State Highway Patrol Trooper. Sheriff Wood said the water was at least 30 feet deep at the point.

Grandfather Witnessed Tragedy

A grandfather, Forrest F. Reed, 1614 West Main, Sedalia, was fishing on the bank and witnessed the tragedy. Also in the vicinity were his father, his uncle, Herbert Bennett, Sr., and his cousin, Herbert Bennett Jr., with whom he was swimming.

The boy was born in Sedalia July 9, 1937, the son of Frank and Virginia Reed Humphrey. He was reared here and attended the Horace Mann School, moving to Kansas City about four years ago. He attended the Boone School in Kansas City. In Sedalia the family resided at 1318 South Park.

He is survived by his parents; two brothers, John, 11, and Jackie, 6; and a sister, Margaret, 4; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest F. Reed, 1614 West Main, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Humphrey, 5121 1/2 East Fifth; and eight aunts and six uncles.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 31—(AP)—Mrs. Esther Willard, 38, of Kansas City, drowned today in the capsizing of a boat in which she was fishing in the Lake of the Ozarks.

The accident occurred near the Lake Village Resort in Miller County. The boat turned over in 30 feet of water.

Mrs. Willard's husband, Ralph, and an unidentified couple with them managed to reach shore safely.

Abilene Prepares To Welcome Its Favorite Son In Big Way

ABILENE, Kan., May 31—(AP)—They are garlanding Abilene today with gay, red-white-and-blue bunting in preparation for the homecoming next week of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the town's favorite son, soldier, presidential candidate and everything else.

But in the carnival air, there are overtones of serious concern. In the eyes of Eisenhower's leaders, this will be much more than just a celebration. They say it can have profound effects, for good or evil, on the last stretch drive to nominate him as the Republican candidate for the presidency.

Eisenhower is scheduled to make a major speech, to be televised nationally, Wednesday night.

The following morning, the program calls for him to appear at a full-dress press conference. He will be out of uniform, and therefore presumably ready to answer questions on the great national issues and problems, inherent in the campaign.

Lieutenants Don't Worry

His campaign lieutenants, both here and in Missouri, all have about the same feeling, namely: "We're not worried. We think he can handle himself. But if he should stub his toe—well, it could be mighty serious."

The events ahead at Abilene may not constitute a make-or-break test for Eisenhower. At the same time, his supporters do not attempt to disguise their feelings of concern.

They are attaching particular importance to the press conference, Thursday.

And their hope is that the net effect of the whole Abilene program will be to start a prairie fire of such enthusiasm for Eisenhower "that the delegates just can't go any other way."

The home stretch drive in the race for the GOP nomination is at hand now. Only a little more than a month remains before the convention meets in Chicago, July 7.

Associated Press tabulations of delegates indicate that Sen. Robert A. Taft is leading in convention votes. Eisenhower's board of strategy hopes to overcome that lead in the last remaining weeks, and it is counting heavily on a good start at Abilene.

Eisenhower has invited delegates, state chairmen, and state governors to visit him. Preparations are being made to handle between 150 and 200 of them while the general is in Abilene.

Crowd May Reach 75,000

A member of the arrangements committee estimated that the general attendance might run as high as 75,000. The townspeople are praying for good weather.

"If it rains," one of them said, "you'll see the finest, muddiest, stickiest gumbo on earth."

Even so, the weather is only a secondary worry.

The important thing, in the considerations of Eisenhower's admirers, is the impression he makes on TV and at the press conference. They profess confidence, but they're keeping their fingers crossed.

Col. Lincoln Will Speak To Lions, C. of C. Wednesday

Business men and women are welcome to attend but must call and give their names to the Chamber of Commerce office so that reservations may be made.

Col. Lincoln will talk on the Sedalia Air Force Base from the construction angle.

Ike Loses Delegates In Oklahoma Shuffle

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 31—(AP)—A slight shuffling of Republican National Convention delegate sentiment in Oklahoma today reduced indicated support for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for President and gave Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur one more vote.

A new tabulation by the Associated Press of the 16 delegates gave Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio seven announced votes, Eisenhower a probable five, MacArthur three and one uncommitted. Previously the delegation had been counted as seven each for Taft and Eisenhower and two for MacArthur.

There remains the possibility of further changes before convention time.

The realignment resulted when one Eisenhower delegate shifted to Taft, one Taft to MacArthur, and one Eisenhower to uncommitted.

Program By Jr. Rotarians

The Junior Rotarians will present the program at the meeting Monday noon. Ray Lippard is program chairman.

Eisenhower Starts Home; He'll Land In Capital Today

PARIS, May 31—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower ended his second "Crusade in Europe" today and flew home for the political wars.

The general and Mrs. Eisenhower took off at 7:04 a.m. CST in his four-engined Constellation, the Columbine.

He is due in Washington at 2 p.m. CST tomorrow after getting a night's rest at Stephenville, Nfld.

The Eisenhowers arrived at Stephenville late tonight and went to bed almost immediately. They leave there for Washington at 10 a.m., CST.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, his successor as Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, was one of the last to give him a farewell handshake here.

Military colleagues and the men who are backing him as a candidate for the Republican nomination will welcome him in Washington, where he will get the 17-gun salute of his five-star rank.

Then will come two days of conferences with President Truman, Secretary of Defense Lovett and others.

When those are over he will change his uniform and head for his home town of Abilene, Kan., in civilian clothing. A close friend said it probably would be a favorite grey pinstripe suit.

Parting Is Jovial

The farewell parting at Orly Airfield was brief and jovial.

High ranking officers of SHAPE, many of them with their wives and children wearing "I Like Ike" campaign buttons, came to see him off.

Mrs. Eisenhower was obviously moved, particularly when Orly Field employees presented her a big bouquet of roses. She blinked back tears.

Mrs. Eisenhower wore on the lapel of her red gabardine suit the ornate wings of "honorary aircraft commander," recently presented to her by the crew of the Columbine. The plane is named for the state flower of her home state, Colorado.

Eisenhower reviewed an honor guard at the airport.

French Defense Minister Rene Plevin led the general and Mrs. Eisenhower to a battery of microphones for the final, official farewell.

"France sees you depart with regret," he said. "She will always keep in her heart the memory of what you have done for her liberation. She will also recall, like all free peoples, that it is to you she owes the solid foundation of this Atlantic Defense Community on which depends the security and peace of Europe."

"That is why, in her name I say to you, General and Madame Eisenhower, merci and au revoir."

Ike Believes in France

Eisenhower replied he and his wife were leaving "not only with feelings of regret and gratitude, but also with a feeling of profound confidence that the glory of France is again on the rise, because the destiny of France is again in the hands of the French people."

"There is nothing to be afraid of," he said. "The gallantry and courage of these people are equal to the task ahead of us. You have real friends both here and across the seas. Never forget that. Let us march forward to the only thing that is worthwhile in this world—peace, permanent peace and security. We will have it."

Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, the general's physician, and Mrs. Snyder, were among those who flew with the Eisenhowers.

Hospital Dismisses 2 Injured Soldiers

Cpl. Charles A. Michael of Gibsonburg, O., and S/Sgt. Bernard Nelson of Otis, Ore., were dismissed from the Bothwell Hospital Saturday afternoon after receiving medical treatment for injuries received in an accident in which they were involved Thursday morning.

A third member in the accident, Pvt. Leland Jett, is still in the hospital under observation.

City's Residents Become Jittery

BERLIN, May 31—(AP)—A new Red squeeze tightened on West Berlin today. The German Communist People's Police lopped two little islands of freedom on the outskirts of the city.

West Berlin was gripped by its worst case of jitters since the Russian blockade of 1948-49 as the hammers of Burgerblage and Steinstecken fell victims of the program to seal the Soviet occupation zone from the Allied sectors and Allied West Germany.

The People's Police moved into Burgerblage, just inside the Russian zone but administratively attached to the British sector or Berlin, and ordered its 43 families to get out.

Later the police slammed a blockade on the 50-family hamlet of Steinstecken and cut it off from the American sector, to which it has belonged.

The worst could come tomorrow, when the East German Communist government has announced it will institute new rules requiring special passes for all Germans traveling in the Soviet zone.

This could mean a virtual blockade if the Communists decide such passes also are required of truckers, barabergen and railmen who carry on Berlin's lifeline traffic with the west across 110 miles of the Soviet zone.

When the Communists announced their new transit visa requirements Tuesday, they said details would be disclosed later. So far there has been no elaboration and people were on edge.

It's all part of the Communist campaign against the peace contract to Ally West Germany in western defense, which the Reds say will mean civil war. They contend they are setting up security belts "to keep out western spies, saboteurs and black marketers."

Police Officer Dies In Fall From Ladder

ST. LOUIS, May 31—(AP)—Police Lt. Ralph McNail, 49, was killed today when he apparently lost his balance and fell 30 feet from a ladder at his home.

Police said McNail, head of the department's communications division, had been trimming tree branches. They said he grabbed a high tension wire while falling, apparently electrocuting himself.

Burns were found on the body where it touched the wires.

Gen Clay, Who Operated Air Lift for Berlin, Says Allies Can Whip Red Blockade Again

NEW YORK (AP)—The man who broke the Soviet blockade of Berlin with the historic airlift of 1948-49 says the West can whip another one, if and when the Russians impose it.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, former U.S. military governor of Germany, noted the Soviet Union is making menacing gestures in Germany, but he does not believe they are ready to make war.

"It is always possible that they would push us more than we would take, but I doubt that," he told this reporter. "I think war will come only if the Soviets are ready for war. I doubt very much that they think they can win such a war now. If they had wanted a war and were prepared for it, we would have had it in 1947."

Clay left Germany in 1949 after directing the airlift which dealt the Soviet Union a mighty psychological blow. He is chairman of the Continental Can Company. He also heads the privately operated Crusade for Freedom which supports Radio Free Europe's broadcasts.

The Russians today are making gestures which lead many to think another blockade is in the offing. But Clay feels they are only using their regular tactics of terror and threat of war to balk Western defense moves.

If they should clamp on a full land blockade of Berlin, Clay said, an airlift could beat it again.

"An airlift today would be even simpler than the one we put on then," he said. "Our transports today have double the capacity. The only consideration would be whether the Russians would use force against an airlift, which would be an overt act leading to war. I don't think they are ready for that."

"As for Berlin, it is in better shape today to withstand the blockade than it was before. For one thing, it has its own power plant and is no longer dependent upon the Soviet sector for power. And I would assume that Berlin has built up substantial reserves, such as coal."

Clay disclosed that in the 1948 crisis he once officially recommended the U.S., British and French governments undertake sending a convoy down the highway to Berlin. But he accompanied this with a warning: If this were undertaken, the three powers would have to be prepared to go to war should the Russians meet force with force.

The three governments turned down the recommendation. In retrospect, Clay cannot say whether the three-power decision was a mistake.

"On the one hand, as it turned out, we gained great prestige in the free world by the way we broke the blockade with the airlift," he observes. "On the other hand, if the people of the United States had been prepared at that time to say they would go to war, we would have found out then whether the Soviet Union was ready or willing to fight. I didn't think they were."

He urged speedy U.S. ratification of the Bonn Peace Contract as the best answer to the Russians.

The West's first consideration in the event of a blockade, he said, would be not to let Berlin down. If Russia's prime objective is to stop ratification, he added, the answer must be political—to push ratification of the various defense agreements signed in Paris this week.

If the Russians succeeded in persuading the Germans to reject the peace contract and the European army treaty, it would certainly upset Allied plans, Clay said, but Soviet pressure could stiffen West German resistance to the Communist campaign.

"I think the West Germans will withstand the Soviet drive," he added. "In any event, the actions of West Germany with respect to the establishment of the European army marks the crucial point of the whole program of Western defense. We have made steady progress. Further progress requires the creation of a European army, and failure anywhere along the line to get ratification would be a body blow to our program."

"If, in the event of a blockade now, we made a move to use force without the concurrence of the other countries, we would arouse their fears and destroy our own chances to get ratification from them. First we must get the ratification. The situation is different from that of 1948. Then, only Berlin was in question. Now all Europe is at stake."

Catch, Kill 15 Huks

MANILA (AP)—Government troops pursuing a fleeing Communist Huk force killed a total of 15 Huks yesterday and early today, defense headquarters announced.

The troops occupied the Communist hideout on the east shore of Laguna de Bay, a large lake south of Manila, after a battle lasting an hour. Eleven Huks were killed in that engagement and four more early today.

'Marty's Day' Riots Cause 3 Jap Deaths

TOKYO (P)—Communist "Marty's Day" demonstrations swept Japan Friday and Tokyo police killed three rioters in an acid-oil bomb throwing mob.

Three newspapermen were the only Americans reported injured in rioting that spread north to Hokkaido and south to Kyushu.

Twenty-five thousand police smashed 37 demonstrations participated in by an estimated 20,000 persons. They arrested 111 leaders. Police said 113 officers were hurt but did not say how many demonstrators were injured.

The Central Committee of the Japanese Communist party called the demonstrations to mark the anniversary of a May 30 Communist uprising two years ago.

Communist-inspired outbreaks at U.N. war prisoner camps on seething Kojima Island and on the Korean mainland Thursday and Friday left nine Red prisoners killed and 17 wounded.

Six of these deaths were on riot-torn Kojima, where U.N. soldiers constructed new, smaller compounds they hope will end POW rule inside the enclosures.

In Japan three rioters were killed when about 200 Koreans, students and laborers attacked an outlying Tokyo police station with searing acid and flaming oil bombs. Police fired into the mob as it surged forward breaking windows with stones and threatening 13 officers.

Associated Press correspondent William C. Barnard was hit and burned on the side of the neck by an acid bomb, while reporting a clash between police and an acid-throwing mob of 1,500. His injury was not serious.

National rural police said the riots centered in outlying sections of Tokyo and in Osaka. Nearly 30 persons were arrested in two big Tokyo riots, 39 in Osaka and 13 Red Koreans at nearby NARA.

Clashes between police and students, workers and Koreans were reported at Sapporo and Sendai in the north and Hiroshima and Fukuoka in the west. On Japan's northernmost island, police broke up a demonstration by Hokkaido University students.

The nine prisoner deaths added to tension in the U.N. prisoner of war camps in Korea.

On Kojima Island camp officials disclosed that five prisoners were killed and two wounded Friday although only five bullets were fired from an M1 Army rifle by an American guard. In battle as many as three have been killed by one M1 slug.

The guard opened fire when a prisoner on a latrine detail attacked him. The fifth victim died early today and one of the two remaining wounded was reported in critical condition.

Camp officials said prisoners attacked when the guard stopped him from throwing illegal messages over the fence of a nearby compound.

The sixth Kojima prisoner death was Thursday, when a U.S. soldier's automatic rifle fired accidentally during a guard change in Compound 66—two hours after a bloodless skirmish in the same compound.

Three Korean civilian internees were killed and 13 injured Thursday in a fight among captured personnel moved from Kojima to a new compound at Yongchon, 60 miles north of Pusan, provisional capital of South Korea.

Air pressure at 16,000 feet above sea level is about half that at sea level.

Reds Outnumber UN 2.5 to 1 In Korea; Doubt Offensive

SEOUL, Korea (P)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet said today Communist armies in Korea outnumber United Nations forces 2½ to 1 and "suffer for nothing for combat," but he does not expect an immediate Red offensive.

The U.S. Eighth Army commander at a press conference took up Eighth Army problems. These ranged from the fighting front to the troublesome "Southern Front" at Kojima Island's prisoner of war compounds.

On Kojima, Van Fleet said, he believed the situation is under control and the impending breakup of the huge 6,000 to 8,000 in compounds into smaller groups will be carried off without incident.

"It is true that the enemy has taken advantage of the long stalemate to build up his power and resources," the general said.

"We estimate now that the enemy is 2½ times greater than the United Nations in numerical combat strength."

"We estimate that he has a two to one numerical superiority in artillery."

"But he is inferior to us in tanks and air capabilities."

"We also believe that if the enemy strikes again, he will use all the air power at his disposal."

Big Muddy's Cut Will Leave St. Joe Airport In Kansas

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (P)—The Missouri River, outflow of the plains, has made a mockery of men's plans again.

It has been called the wildest, hungriest, contariest river in the world, and doesn't give a hoot about laws or mighty engineering works.

In April's upper river record flood, the Missouri flopped out of its bed here and in northwest Missouri. But its biggest splash was near this historic river city.

The Missouri cut across the big "S" bend it makes here.

As a result, Elwood, Kan., a town of 1,200, was left on the Missouri side of the stream. And St. Joseph's $6,000,000 municipal airport, Rosecrans Field, was left on the Kansas side.

By driving pilings to block off the new channel at the lower part of the "S" curve, Army engineers are getting the stream back into its normal channel and returning Elwood to Kansas.

But the engineers fear the other channel the river cut across the top part of the "S" bend will have to remain. There the Missouri cut across a neck of land less than two miles wide. Less than 15 per cent of the stream flow is now going the long way around, a distance of 12 miles.

So deep is the cut and so strong the current, engineers think the new channel is there to stay. Currently the city is running a ferry service to its municipal airport.

French Obtain Arms, Documents In Red Offices

PARIS, May 31.—(AP)—Police flying squads seized mounds of documents and riot weapons today in raids on Communist offices throughout France. One aim obviously was to obtain evidence supporting the government's charge that plans for a Red revolution were behind the rioting here Wednesday night against Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

The raids began soon after dawn. Steel-helmeted police struck in Paris, in Lyon, Marseille, Clermont-Ferrand, Bordeaux and La-Rochelle.

But it was quickly clear the French Reds—who recognize only Italy as having a larger Communist party west of the Iron Curtain—had not been taken entirely off guard.

At several points, chimneys of party headquarters were smoking with the fires of burning papers before the police squads reached the scene. At others, valuable moments were lost while police forced their way through barricaded entrances.

The Communists had been on the alert since their Secretary-General, Jacques Duclos, was jailed in the anti-Ridgway rioting and accused of plotting against France's internal security.

The Interior Ministry said important stocks of weapons were seized, including piles of black-jacks, shoemakers' paring knives and cases of cartridges. It did not disclose whether firearms were found.

Burning of documents is sometimes a prelude to Communist moves toward going underground.

Police found a door to the MFA building, Pacific and Osage, open at 1:30 a. m. Saturday. The door was locked and a note left for the manager.

A 1947 Plymouth automobile of Jewell Hatfield, 666 East 13th, caught fire at Third and Engineer about 1 p. m. Friday. Cause of the fire was a cigarette on a cushion. Damage was estimated at $75. Both fire companies answered the alarm.

Sedalian, Internationally Famous—

Dr. Oscar Batson To Speak At M. U. Next Tuesday Night

Dr. Oscar V. Batson, former Sedalian and a University of Missouri graduate internationally known for his work in the field of anatomy, will give an illustrated lecture at Columbia at 8 p. m. Tuesday, June 3, in the Library Auditorium. It was announced today by Dr. M. Punsen Neal, acting dean of the University School of Medicine.

Dr. Batson, who is chairman of the department of anatomy in the graduate school of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, is a native of Sedalia. He received an A.B. degree at the University of Missouri in 1916 and an A.M. in 1918. His M.D. degree was received from St. Louis University in 1920.

Dr. Batson will speak on "The Vertebral Veins and Other Valvless Veins."

According to Dean Neal, Dr. Batson is widely known for the discovery that vertebral veins in the human body carry blood from the pelvic region directly to the brain. Dean Neal explained that since Dr. Batson found blood passing through the vertebral veins reaches the cranial cavity without first passing through the heart or lungs, his discovery enabled medical scientists to understand how disease could spread from the abdominal region to the brain and not involve the heart.

and how, for instance, cancer of the breast and some internal organs could reach other parts of the body without involving the lungs.

According to Dr. Batson, a paper published by him, in 1940 on the function of the vertebral veins and their role in the transfer of disease from one part of the body to another aroused interest principally in the explanation he offered "for a baffling variety of cancer spread." He added: "This interest obscured somewhat the fundamental anatomic concept that we have a fifth venous system in the body which acts as a complement to the other four systems." He said that he still receives a steady stream of requests for reprints of this article.

Dr. Batson was an assistant in anatomy while attending the University of Missouri, and in 1919-20 was instructor in pathology at St. Louis university. Since then he has taught anatomy at the University of Wisconsin, the University of Cincinnati, and the Ohio College of Dental Surgery. He has been at the University of Pennsylvania since 1928.

Dean Neal said that the vertebral system of veins is often referred to as "the Batson Venous System." He said that Dr. Batson's lecture will be of great interest to students and practitioners in the field of medicine, particularly to those working in surgery and malignancies. Through formal announcements in the five medical journals published for distribution in Missouri and personal communications, he has invited physicians throughout Missouri, dentists of the central Missouri district, and members of the various science groups on the university campus to attend and to participate in a discussion and question period following the lecture.

Home Building Corp. Puts-On Mobile House Demonstration

The Home Building Corp. of Sedalia was one of several manufacturers of mobile and demountable houses selected by the Housing and Home Finance Agency of the United States government to provide demonstration of their home the past week.

Stanley Stewart, Washington, D. C., an assistant in the HHFA, was in Sedalia to see the locally made three-bedroom type house disassembled and reassembled. The demonstration was made at Second Street Terrace and Gentry.

The structure which was erected several days ago, ready for occupation was visited by Stewart and at a given signal workmen began to disassemble it. The structure was torn down and put into "package form" placed on a large trailer truck and hauled away. It was returned and workmen began to reassemble the house.

Time Slashed 100 Hours
It was set up for a 300-man hour job, but the whole demonstration took barely 200 hours. Stewart after the demonstration paid tribute to the new style house and also complimented Neil O. Rebyrn, president of the Home Building Corp., who styled the house.

"The ceiling is made up of fiber-glass blocks laid between the trusses and the floor is specially made panels of plywood with a factory finished oak Parkay surface, all bonded together with waterproof glue."

"Another feature of the house is the mechanical core wherein all of the plumbing, heating, and electrical entrance along with the kitchen cabinets is concentrated into a unit 4' wide, 8' long, and 8' high. Heating is by the perimeter type system which insures a warm floor."

"In making the design we attacked the problem of trying to find the best way to solve the various problems of the jobs that each part of a house has to do, taking into consideration all of the various difficulties ordinarily encountered in conventional housing. All of these various problems such as rotting windows, cracking walls, photographing of joists in the ceiling, nailheads, non-washable paper walls, small doorways, bad ventilation, poor paint, and myriad other difficulties have been eliminated in this particular type house."

"The main difference between the experimental house and our regular line or production is that this particular house has been made demountable at the request of the U. S. government," Mr. Rebyrn concluded.

Try To Land "Muskie"
Ado Mansfield, 1217 South Ohio, with Dr. W. R. Patterson, Warrensburg, and the latter's son, William Patterson, Santa Monica, Calif., who is with the Douglas Aircraft Company, will leave today for Sturgis, Mich., to spend about ten days fishing in the lakes and streams there hoping to catch some large "muskie." They have received reports they are striking at the present. William Patterson made the trip by plane to Kansas City to join his father and Mr. Mansfield.

McLaughlin's make every effort to serve the best interests of those who call for funeral service. The personal and financial preferences of the bereaved family are given first consideration.

House To Open Action Monday On New GI Bill

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP)—A bill extending veterans' benefits to men and women who joined the armed forces since fighting began in Korea on June 27, 1950, comes up for House action on Monday.

The measure — carrying help along the lines given veterans of World War II — is subject to 40 minutes debate. Then with no opportunity for any change to be made—it can be voted up or down. But if a roll call is requested this will not be taken until Thursday.

The "take-it-or-leave-it" method of presentation grew out of the only controversial provision in the bill.

The measure provides that education benefits shall be paid directly to the veterans instead of to the colleges as is the practice presently.

Rep. Teague (D-Tex.), author of the bill, claims it was written "out of consideration for the veterans and the taxpayers" and as a remedy for abuses discovered in the present veteran training program.

But Rep. Springer (R-Ill.) claims it discriminates against the private colleges of the nation. Springer's plan to offer an amendment to the bill on the floor was stymied by the committee's decision to ask the House to suspend its rules and pass the bill in one action.

The bill provides an education allowance of $110 a month for veterans without dependents or $150 for those with dependents who enroll in a full-time institutional course.

The half-time schooling allowance would be $50 and $70.

From these allowances, veterans would have to meet all of their education costs, including subsistence.

Bullet Hinders Police Working St. Louis Case

ST. LOUIS, May 31.—(AP)—A battered bullet, found near the body of an electric company employee, hindered rather than helped police in their investigation of two leads today.

Raymond C. Raack, 52, was shot to death Wednesday as he entered his automobile on a downtown street.

The battered .38 caliber bullet was found near the body. Last night police arrested a 16-year-old youth in another shooting. They said he had a .38 caliber revolver.

Police Capt. James Chapman said the youth, when questioned about the Wednesday night shooting, told them he had loaned the gun to a friend that day.

Later, Chapman said, the youth told police he had done some shooting near the downtown corner where Raack was killed. After pointing out the area to police,

Grim Backdrop For Memorial Observance

By The Associated Press

The simmering unrest of Communists in Europe and Asia provided a grim backdrop for the solemn observance of America's Memorial Day.

This nation's war dead were honored throughout the United States and in Japan, England, France, Italy, Germany, Sweden and other foreign countries.

And for most Americans it meant a three-day holiday—with picnics and big sporting events. The long weekend brought a slowly mounting toll of accidental death, mostly from traffic and drowning.

There were speeches at some of the ceremonies but merely the laying of a wreath in others. The traditional 21-gun salute was fired in many.

Russian, Polish and Czech United Nations delegates walked away from the grave of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt when W. Averell Harriman declared in a speech at Hyde Park, N. Y., "A former ally which we had helped save in Japan, England, France, Italy, Germany, Sweden and other foreign countries, turned traitor to the cause of peace and international good faith, and promoted an even more terrible tyranny of its own."

In Arlington National Cemetery at Washington, wreaths were laid for President Truman at the tomb of the unknown soldier, the Confederate monument, the Spanish War memorial and the monument of the Civil War's unknown soldier.

In the Far East, fighting continued in Korea and Indochina and Martyr's Day Red riots rocked Japan. Tokyo police killed three persons in a Communist mob which attacked with scaring acid and fanning oil bombs. The only injury to Americans there was suffered by a reporter. Another U. S. newsman was hurt in Kobe.

In a Memorial Day statement, Gen. Mark Clark, supreme United Nations commander in the Far East, said:

"We best honor our fallen comrades by our devotion to the great causes for which they died and for which we continue to battle."

Churchmen and officials joined Americans in Europe—mostly military personnel—in observing the day. Ambassador Walter S. Gifford in England attended services in Westminster St. Margaret's Church, London, and laid a wreath on the tomb of Britain's unknown soldier.

Seventeen Memorial Day services were held in France, where Ambassador James G. Dunn delivered an address at Suresnes Military Cemetery and laid a wreath on the tomb of the French unknown soldier.

Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker attended ceremonies at Anzio beachhead in Italy with Lt. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, who led the bitter battle there.

In Berlin, a Sixth Infantry honor guard fired a salute and Gen. Thomas T. Handy, commander of U. S. European forces, issued a statement saying, "We can pay no greater tribute to our honored dead than to rededicate ourselves to the cause for which they died."

His words were given emphasis when Soviet guards fired warning shots at reporters photographing headstones thrown across the border separating the West sector of Berlin from the Soviet zone.

Back in this country, representatives of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and other Southerners raised the Confederate banner over the grave of Belle Boyd, a famed southern spy during the Civil War.

Civil War veteran James A. Hard, who will be 111 July 15, led the Memorial Day parade at Rochester, N. Y. Declaring "this might be the last time I'm out and I want to make the most of it," he finished the parade and then ate a meal consisting of half a chicken, a full helping of mashed potatoes and peas, a cup of coffee—and a cigar.

Hens Lay Eggs While Traveler Is On Trip

PULASKI, N. Y. — Samuel Bass says he put two New Hampshire red hens in an orange crate at Lakeland, Fla., tied the box on the rear bumper of his car—and had eggs regularly all the way north.

He said he found two eggs when he fed the hens each night en route. The last night there were three. Bass noted with a chuckle, that poultry experts contend that changing a hen's quarters usually stops her egg production.

Top Commies in Romania Fall Including Friend of Stalin

WASHINGTON — Political lightning always lurking at the summit of Communist high command has struck in Romania, toppling Ana Pauker, ruthless friend of Joseph Stalin, from her party jobs.

The news that she and other key Communists had fallen was relayed from the U.S. Legation in Bucharest. It may be the beginning of the end for one of the most feared and powerful women since the middle ages sway of Lucretia Borgia and Catherine de Medici.

Mrs. Pauker was a leading member of the Politburo (political cabinet) of the Romanian Communist party. This writer interviewed her and saw her frequently at public functions while a correspondent in Romania after the Reds took over. She was then considered Romania's leading Communist.

Official information thus far indicates Mrs. Pauker still has her government jobs as vice premier and minister of foreign affairs. Reports in Vienna newspapers said she already had been swept from government as well as party office. This would be in line with usual Communist practice—real authority rests on party position which, once lost, carries away the facade of elective government office.

But big, mannish Ana Pauker is a woman—now in her 50s—who clawed her way from the wretched ghetto of her native Bucharest to membership in the world Communist command. She reportedly had her own husband shot when he showed "deviationist" tendencies. It was a hard route, one only a courageous and resourceful fighter could travel.

It would not be wise to count her out until it is known definitely that she is in a Communist dungeon. In the Communist world, there usually is no intermediate stop between the seat of power and the cell.

If Ana Pauker is started down the gloomy road of Communist disgrace, one of her torments will be exact knowledge of what will be done to her. She helped develop techniques for breaking nations and men, and has applied them with no known pity.

Yet she is a woman who addresses a bedraggled slum crowd with the tenderness of a mother cooing over a cradle, inspiring tears and fond cries of "Tovarish Any. Tovarish Any" (Comrade Annie). The writer saw this at a number of mass meetings in Bucharest.

Mrs. Pauker's party fall was the puzzle in a major shakeup of Romania's Communist-dominated government. The report from the U.S. Legation at Bucharest, received in the State Department yesterday, quoted official reports in Bucharest's censored press.

Ana Pauker was by repute close enough to Stalin—she reportedly could phone the Kremlin, ask for Stalin, and be sure of getting his ear—that she could not be permanently removed from Red power without the assent of Moscow.

If she is through, her fall might point to shifts in the sands of Kremlin politics.

The Bucharest reports said Vasile Luca, former finance minister, a Moscow trained Communist, and

Navy Plane Needs Tow-In by Tiny Coast Guard Boat

MIAMI, Fla. —A Navy PBM, which usually lands at 90 miles per hour, came into Miami yesterday at a speed of two knots.

The motive power wasn't supplied by the two engines of the big amphibious plane, but by a 38-foot Coast Guard boat. The plane's crew of nine sat on the wings, with their legs dangling.

The Navy appreciated the Coast Guard tow, but "oh the shame of it," said the plane's pilot, Lt. Comdr. Herbert Nydahl of Canton, O., to the co-pilot, Lt. Merle Clemens of Findlay, O.

"Shame!" replied Clemens. "There's no shame to losing an engine over the ocean."

"No," said Nydahl. "I mean the boat's tow, us. They keep getting smaller and smaller."

The Coast Guard boat had just pulled the plane into the seaplane channel at Dinner Key and a 20-foot work boat came out and secured the line.

The plane, with 24 persons

Teohari Georgescu, vice premier and minister of interior, were among six others booted with Mrs. Pauker from the Romanian Politburo.

A new nine-man Politburo was announced.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE

—and Oh, how much better it looks!

HOUSE PAINT

There is a difference — and a big one — in house paints. There's a difference in the way they look when new — an even greater difference in the way they look a few years later. It's technical "know-how" that makes P&L House Paint the all-weather paint — that makes it wear longer and stay cleaner and fresher for more years. It's the choice of painters, architects and owners who know. Once used on your home, it will be your choice, too!

Little League Opens Monday Night With Double Header

Rotary-Elks In First Tilt At 6:30 P. M.

Sedalia's Little League games last for six innings and are played with a hard ball on a diamond two-thirds the size of a regulation playing field. All players and umpires will be in uniform. No admission will be charged, but a group of young ladies will circulate among the spectators to receive a free will offering to help defray expenses of the league which is providing baseball for 250 boys between the ages of 8 and 12.

There are four teams in the major leagues and eight teams in the minors. Managers direct all 12 squads and all will play regularly throughout the season. Managers of the major league teams include Cecil Dimp for the Rotary, George Ray for Kiwanis, Paul Mines for Elks and George Thompson for Jaycees. The co-managers are Hank Williams and Palmer Nichols and the umpires are John Thomas, umpire-in-chief, Palmer Nichols, Donald Donath and Edward Barnes. Official scorekeeper is Ernest Holt.

Herbie Thompson of Holden, took the big honors at the modified jolopy races Friday when he won the main event, a 40-lap contest. Two Sedalia drivers also won events, Bob Paxton driving Jerry Browns jolopy took first in the third heat event of 10-laps and Ed Bahner driving for Bob Williams won the Dog Race a 15-lap.

In the time trials Orval Surls, Kansas City, effected the half-mile for the fastest time. He then returned in the first heat race to win it.

Charles E. Litton, Marshall was the winner of the second heat event.

Carpenter Wins Consolation The Consolation of 25-laps was won by Kenny Carpenter, Oak Grove, who invaded the local racing meet.

Race fans were thrilled during the main event when the entry of the Pregre Motor Co., crashed through the fence on the south curve; Paxton, Sedalia's own daredevil, blew a tire and was eliminated from the event; Vint Siegel lost a wheel but fortunately the car skidded out of the lane of other speeding vehicles.

In the Dog Race the Hainen Motor Co., entry rolled over twice and luckily the car stopped far enough out of the speed lane, other cars were able to maneuver away from the wrecked car.

The next jolopy event scheduled is on Sunday July 6 at which time an endeavor is being made to have a race of cars driven by women.

Bookies Set-Up Ezzard Charles As 12-5 Choice

PHILADELPHIA, May 31 (AP)—Ezzard Charles rules a 12 to 5 favorite to upset the tradition of the prize ring Thursday night by becoming the first former heavy-weight champion to win back the title.

In the same Municipal Stadium ring where Gene Tunney wrestled the crown from rusty Jack Dempsey before 120,000 fans 26 years ago, 38-year-old Jersey Joe Walcott will defend his title for the first time.

The record books say Charles, the 30-year-old ex-champ, must fail as Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Jeffries, Max Baer, and Joe Louis and Dempsey failed before him. It's a stern rule of the ring that no man ever regained the biggest prize of all.

Despite past history and the still-green memory of the crashing left hook that knocked out Charles at Pittsburgh last July 18, Charles remains a strong betting choice.

Promoter Herman Taylor, with participating sponsorship by the Athletic League, expects about 37,000 people to pay at least $250,000 to see the fourth chapter of the Walcott-Charles "series."

The publicity offices announced a pre-fight sale of $100,000 with a $20 top ticket.

The Baseball Roundup Chisox Whip Boston, 7-3 To Close Gap

NEW YORK, May 31—(AP)—Chicago's climbing White Sox scored their eighth victory in nine starts today as veteran Marv Grissom came up with a five-hit 7-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The triumph moved Chicago to within 2 1/2 games of the pace-setting Cleveland Indians. The White Sox trail the runner-up Red Sox by one game and are only a half game behind third place Washington.

Mele Paces Attack Sam Mele, a former Red Sox outfielder, was the big gun in Chicago's attack. Mele pounded out two homers. His second homer, in the sixth, touched off a game-winning five run rally.

Grissom walked four and fanned eight in gaining his second victory. The Red Sox scored twice in the fifth on singles by Vern Stephens, losing pitcher Ray Scarborough and double by Fred Hatfield. Walt Dörner homered in the seventh for Boston's final run.

The Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-3 in the majors only other day game.

Lefty Joe Murr, who balked at being sent to the Minors, gained credit for his second victory. Murr was forced to leave after five innings because of a blister on his pitching hand. Forrest Main finished up.

Willie Jones provided the Phils with a 2-0 lead when he homered in the third with Connie Ryan on base. The Pirates took the lead for keeps with three in the fifth against Lou Possehl. Three hits and a walk did the trick. The Bucs added another run in the sixth and sewed it up in the seventh when Ralph Kiner smashed his sixth home run of the season.

The only other National League game between Cincinnati and Chicago was rained out. The game was called after Wally Westlake homered for the Reds in the second inning. Rain also postponed an afternoon game between New York and Cleveland and night games between St. Louis and Philadelphia, and Detroit and Washington, in the American League.

The only other National League game between Cincinnati and Chicago was rained out. The game was called after Wally Westlake homered for the Reds in the second inning. Rain also postponed an afternoon game between New York and Cleveland and night games between St. Louis and Philadelphia, and Detroit and Washington, in the American League.

Sports Scraps

PFC Robert W. Rapp, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Rapp, 1612 East Broadway, is making a name for himself in armed service pitching. Playing as a first string pitcher for the Army Chemical Center Retorts in Maryland he is described as "currently burning up the mound."

In a recent game he hurled a three hitter shutting out his opposition 15-0. He gave up one walk and struck out six. Not only pitching is his art but he singled and tripped to help the scoring department, disproving the old adage about pitchers being poor hitters.

Assigned to the Chemical Corps Medical Laboratories, which is a research and development headquarters of the Chemical Corps he is a laboratory chemist in the Gassing Branch.

He is a graduate of Smith-Cotton and Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg, with a degree in chemistry. He is assigned under the Army's Scientific and Professional Personnel Program, designed to utilize the technical training and educational background of qualified enlisted personnel. He enlisted on June 12, 1931 and took basic training at Ft. Riley, Kas.

Rapp will be well remembered as a pitcher of the Sedalia Blues and Sedalia Merchants.

ALONG with other former stars of the diamond in Sedalia it is noted that Jerry Lumpe, Warsaw, who played with the B. J. Chiefs hit one of the two hits for Joplin against Hutchinson, who won 1-0 Saturday night. Joplin is in the Western Association.

Gary Tuggle, who played with Baton Rouge in the Appalachian League, and Ralph Fall, who played with Jessup in the Georgia State League, are now both in the armed services. Nodoubt they'll get in plenty of baseball playing in the service along with other duties.

Buddy Thomas has shifted over to Memphis from San Antonio and Bob Shawver is now playing in the Georgia League.

BACK on Frank Baumann, the master of the Missouri High School State Baseball, ended his high school career with his fourth no-hit, no-run pitching performance, when he mastered Cape Girardeau 3-0 to win the State Championship for his Central High School of St. Louis. I still say the Smith-Cotton Tigers need not feel too bad over losing to him.

During the tournament in 42 innings he allowed only four hits. Two of the other no-hitters were perfect games—that is nobody reached first base. He had a total strikeout record of 95 for the tournament.

Of course you might expect it, the St. Louis Browns had their scout, Freddie Hoffman on hand to look him over. Bill Veck, as soon as time permits will probably be in there bidding for the St. Louis Star.

Sedalia Ramblers Made The Finals Burnett Meat Packers Of K.C. Took The 1946 Semi-Pro Crown

Editor's note—This is the first article on the history of the Missouri State Semi-Pro Tournament written for the Democrat-Capital by "Hank" Williams of Sedalia, the Missouri semi-pro commissioner.

The 1946 Missouri State Semi-Pro tournament was held in Sedalia and was sponsored by the Sedalia Booster Club. The event was under the supervision of C. C. Rouse, the state commissioner.

This tournament produced a variety of events, and if not some of the roughest, some of the most spirited games in semi-pro tournaments. Players were tossed out of games, riots were started and crowds attended the games in record numbers.

In a field of 26 teams, the Burnett Meat Packers of Kansas City finished undefeated in this 11th annual semi-pro tournament to capture the state title. In the final game the Kansas City team shut out the Sedalia Ramblers by a 7-0 score.

Sedalia earned the right to play in the championship game by defeating Moberly 10-9 in a 12-inning semi-final contest. The

Simmons Cites Three Factors Behind MU Baseball Success

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 31 — What does it take to put together a championship baseball team in the Big Seven conference?

Ask the man who owns one... that would be Coach John "H" Simmons, whose Missouri Tigers are newly fitted out with the 1952 title. Runners-up in both 1950 and 1951, the Bengals went all the way this spring on the wings of a 13-1 league record. They finished the regular season with an overall ledger of 15 wins and 5 losses.

The Tigers thus gave Simmons his fifth conference crown over a 14-year coaching stretch, and assured themselves of some post-season activity. Just how much activity will hinge upon the results of a play-off series with St. Louis University, champions of the Missouri Valley, who come here June 4, 5 and 6 for a best-of-three set.

The winner will qualify as the District Five representative in the Collegiate World Series at Omaha June 12-16.

Team Rated Simmons' Best

Most observers rate the current Missouri team as possibly the best all-around aggregation ever fielded by the fall, husky-voiced Simmons since he took over here in 1937. It's a sound, hustling outfit which has backed up good pitching and team defense with a surprising bit of stickwork.

There were many factors in the team's success, Simmons volunteers three quick reasons: "Our boys had exceptionally high morale — they sure wanted to win... We got help exactly where we needed it... and we were fortunate that the wrist Junior Wren fractured in football healed well enough to permit him to play.

"Let's not forget Cappy Timm's Iowa State team, either," says the appreciative M. U. skipper. "They gave us a big lift in the conference by crippling Nebraska and Kansas late in the season. There wasn't much pressure on us after Iowa State knocked off both clubs twice at Ames."

Over the 20-game schedule, veteran right-handers Don (7-1) Boenker and Dick (6-2) Atkinson carried Mizzou's hurling burden as expected, while the club whaled away at a hefty .237 pace. This unexpected punch was coupled with neat defense. Never did a Missouri opponent score more than six runs in a game, and all foes were limited to an average of 3.6 runs per game.

Newcomers Supply Spark

Three newcomers, in Simmons' judgement, supplied a big spark along the way. They were: Shortstop Duane Dickinson, 5-ft. 7 sophomore from Hammond, Ind.; first baseman Bob Schoonmaker, chunky grid letterman from Lebanon; and outfielder Ralph Monroe, a senior from Overland and a reserve last year.

"Dickinson played some fine shortstop for us," elaborates Hi, "and batted a very creditable .284 — much more than I figured he'd hit. Then Schoonmaker did a highly acceptable job in the field, after being switched to first base, to fill a void there... batted in the cleanup spot all season and led the team with a .346 mark. Monroe — the third outfielder we needed — finished second at .339, so that our two top hitters were new to the squad this year."

Veterans in the M.U. lineup came through on schedule. Behind the plate, letterman Herb Gellman and Carl Barbour shared the catching. Their hitting didn't measure up, but they worked the pitching staff intelligently, and had strong throwing arms.

Completing the infield, second baseman Kent Kurtz was the stabilizer of the inner defense. Playing his third season, the steady Columbia senior finished with a .333 batting mark, some 100 points better than his 1951 effort. Ross Boeger, third baseman from Hartsburg, hit a puny .222, but the slight senior was competent afire.

Wren Makes Great Finish

Missouri's outfield tri of Monroe, Wren and Patchett gave the Tigers a fleet patrol. Wren came fast after a slow start to hit .337, and belted home the most runs — 20. Included in the centerfielder's 28 hits were five doubles, one triple and three homers. Flanking Wren in right field was Patchett, speedy Chilli-cothe senior, who tapered off to a final .297 after a vigorous early-season batting spree.

A fourth outfielder, freshman Vic Swenholz, alternated with Patchett and Monroe, and hit for .303 in 14 games. Swenholz and Kurtz gave Mizzou all its left-handed power.

Young Driver Wins Famous '500' Friday

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Troy Ruttman, at 22 the youngest driver in the race, won the famed 500-mile Indianapolis speedway auto race Friday as hard luck knocked the prize out of Bill Vukovich's grasp.

Vukovich apparently had the race won in the 192nd lap when his steering shaft broke and his car brushed the northwest outer wall. That left Ruttman far ahead of his nearest opponent and he won easily in the record time of three hours, 43 minutes and 41.88 seconds for an average of 128.92 miles per hour.

Ruttman, of Lynwood, Calif., led a single lap, the 12th, and then the lead shifted between him and Vukovich only when they made two pit stops apiece for tires and fuel. Vukovich went ahead the last time on the 148th lap. Ruttman was gaining about two seconds a lap on Vukovich but that wouldn't have been enough. Then the leader crashed. Vukovich, "The Mad Russian" to midget racing fans, cried unashamedly and groaned, "What a dirty, lousy, no-good break."

Ruttman and his car owner, J. C. Agajanian of San Pedro, Calif., will pick up a check for about $65,000 tonight at the annual speedway victory dinner.

The purse will depend upon the undisclosed attendance, which looked like the biggest ever—maybe 200,000.

Vukovich and car owner Howard Keck of Los Angeles may get $18,000, and $15,000 of that will represent Vukovich's earnings for leading 150 of the 200 laps.

Vukovich, of Fresno, Calif., joins Ralph DePalma and Louis Meyer as the champion hard losers of the 500-mile classic.

DePalma led in 1912 with less than two laps to go. His Mercedes engine failed and Joe Dawson crossed the finish line while DePalma and his riding mechanic were pushing their car.

Meyer was leading the 1939 race, trying for the fourth victory that no one ever has won, when he lost a tire in the 197th lap. Wilbur Shaw passed him for the big prize.

Jim Rathmann of Chicago, only 23, finished second in a Grancor Wynn's Special and his speed would have been a new record of 120.723 miles an hour if Ruttman hadn't been in front.

Veteran Sam Hanks of Glendale, Calif., was third and Duane Carter of Culver City, Calif., took fourth money.

Sheep Will Be Exposed To A-Blast

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Sheep will be exposed to an atomic blast and a thousand troops will advance into the blast area immediately after the detonation in a daring new test at the Nevada proving ground.

This next explosion in the spring series probably will be set off tomorrow.

The troops will be in foxholes about four miles from ground zero at the time of the explosion. After the detonation they will start their maneuvers toward the blast area.

Brig. Gen. Harry P. Storke, in charge of Army phases of the tests, was asked by newsmen if animals would be used under fire and authorized the following quotation only if used in its entirety:

"Yes, we are using a limited number of sheep because we want to learn, in absence of any possible wartime use of the atom bomb, the blast, thermal and radiation effects of any atomic explosion on humans.

"Since we obviously cannot expose humans to any practical tests, we are using the warm-blooded animal most available and closely resembling a human being. The use of these sheep undoubtedly will result in the saving of American lives if the atomic bomb is ever used in the vicinity of our troops in wartime.

"The sheep are handled as humanely as possible and receive the same care and protection that would be available to soldiers under similar conditions. After the blast they are given priority attention by our veterinarian who is a member of the control group, the first group to approach the ground zero area after the shot."

Chuck, Ground Squirrel, Comes Here for Visit

Sedalia had a very unusual visitor over the weekend. His name is Chuck and he is a baby ground squirrel from Twin Falls, Idaho. He travels mostly in the pocket of his young master's shirt and he drinks milk from a doll size nursing bottle. He sure likes the milk, too. He holds onto the bottle with his two front feet, or paws or whatever it is that a ground squirrel has, sucks the milk through the nipple and wags his funny little tale.

He is right in clover where there is clover, too. He doesn't look for a four leaf clover—any old clover will do, but he holds it in much the same way that he does his bottle and has the best time nibbling and chewing on the leaf.

Chuck was one of a large family, but he somehow got himself lost and was out in the rain on a farm up near Twin Falls when Roy Brown, 12 years old, who lives there, was wandering around out in the country and found him.

Chuck was pretty unhappy at that moment. He was very wet, cold and hungry, so Roy figured he needed someone to take care of him. He immediately adopted Chuck and brought him home with him—that was five days ago—or rather it was five days Friday—so when Roy's family wanted to come to Sedalia over the holidays Chuck's baggage, consisting of one small bottle and a nipple, was packed along with everybody else's and along he came. When he got tired he just curled up in the pocket of Roy's shirt and went to sleep and he liked the trip pretty well.

Mother Kills Two Children With Bat And Paring Knife

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Sheriff H. P. Gleason said the wife of a Navy lieutenant thrust a knife into herself 30 times early today after stabbing her two children to death in their Navy project home 15 miles east of here.

Sheriff Gleason said the woman, Mrs. Mary Glenn, slashed the children to death with a paring knife after beating them with a baseball bat until they lost consciousness. Dead are Billie, 8, and Bobbie, 5½.

Gleason said Mrs. Glenn, taken to Highland Hospital in Oakland, was in "good" condition.

She offered no reason for the stabbings, just continually muttering, "My God, why did I do it," the sheriff said.

Comie POWs Try to Provoke 'Rash' Moves

KOJE ISLAND, Korea (AP)—United Nations prison camp officials expressed the opinion today that Communist-led prisoners of war on this riot-ridden island are "trying to provoke us into a rash move."

Only yesterday, a prisoner attacked an American guard, touching off a shooting incident that killed five prisoners. The day before, another POW was killed by the accidental discharge of a guard's gun. The prisoner died today and one of two other wounded POWs is in a serious condition.

A spokesman for Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, commander of the Kojima Island camp, said this is the official view.

"They know we are going to move in and split them into smaller groups and they know there isn't anything they can do about it. So they are jittery and trying to provoke us into a rash move."

The reported POW death toll from violence, including 115 killed by fellow prisoners, is 246.

Camp officials revealed today that the Canadian Infantry company on Kojima will join the Kings Shropshire light infantry of Britain Tuesday, in guarding troublesome Compound 66. That's where a disturbance was quelled without bloodshed Thursday but where the officer was killed and another injured in an accidental shooting several hours later.

Editorial Cartoonist Drawing For Democrat Gets Award

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(NEA)—John Fischetti, editorial cartoonist for NEA Service and The Sedalia Democrat-Capital, has been awarded the National Headlines' medal for "consistently outstanding editorial cartoons" in 1951, the Headlines' Club has announced.

It is the second time in three years that an NEA Service cartoonist has won the award. In 1950, it went to Dorman Smith, veteran of the drawing board whose editorial cartoons have been familiar to readers of the 800 newspapers served by NEA for many years.

Fischetti is one of 18 who won achievement medal awards in the 18th annual Headliner competition, which drew more than 1000 entries from more than 400 newspapers, radio stations and syndicates.

The awards will be presented June 7 during the annual Headliners' Frolic in Atlantic City.

Fischetti joined the staff of NEA Service a year ago, and since then has been alternating with Smith in providing readers with timely, informative portrayals of national and international news.

A versatile cartoonist formerly with the New York Herald-Tribune and Chicago Sun, his cartoons and illustrations have appeared in books and national magazines.

Red Resistance In So. China Told by Paper

HONG KONG (AP)—Widespread sabotage, arson and other resistance to the Communist Fourth Field Army's rule in four provinces of South-Central China was reported by a Communist newspaper received here today.

The Hankow Chang Chiang paper called for a speedup in the Red political indoctrination offensive against the "enemy" and gave the following report:

Honan Province: 347 bandits arrested and more than 70 rifles and one machine gun seized in the Western part of the province. In Nangang County, 26 murder and arson cases in the last three months.

Hunan Province: Nearly 400 landowner families in Li-ling County have refused to carry out the Communist "labor reform" order to provide forced work for the Reds. One Mayang County landowner was accused of setting fire to 40,000 tung oil trees. (Tung oil, one of China's most valuable exports, is used in paints and varnishes.)

Kiangsi Province: Numerous cases of deliberately set forest fires were reported. In one fire alone, 10,000 camphor trees were destroyed. A woman was arrested shirt of her executed husband. She was accused of "dreaming of a change of weather," and keeping the shirt to be "used sometime in another court."

Bright Flash Worries Pacific Northwest Again

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—Another spectacularly brilliant flash has startled residents of the Pacific Northwest, some of whom said it had the characteristics of a meteorite.

The spark-trailing visitor was seen at 12:36 a.m. yesterday from as far south as Seattle to points beyond the Canadian border, 100 miles to the north.

Capt. Mickey Miliken, Trans-Canada Airlines pilot flying from Victoria to Vancouver, said "it seemed to explode right alongside me and scared my pants off."

Ken St. John at the Vancouver airport tower logged it as a "bright orange object with a greenish halo... very bright... seemed to be a meteorite."

A United Air Lines pilot, John Cordell, said he was 25 miles south of the Canadian border when it appeared with "a brilliant bluish light... I have seen longer trails behind meteorites but never such a brilliant flash."

An object believed to be a meteorite exploded over or near the north end of Seattle in the early morning of May 11. Other recent reports of such phenomena have been received from Eastern Washington, Oregon and Northern California.

Odds and Ends

Mrs. Evelyn Offield, a former teacher in the public schools of Sedalia—while her son was a student here—has written a poem to her famous son. The son is better known to movie fans as Jack Oakie.

The poem, printed recently in an issue of the Cole County Enterprise at Jefferson City, is as follows:

A Mother's Tribute To Her Son
Do you know that your soul is of my soul such a part
That you seem to be fiber and core of my heart?
None other can pain me as you
dear, can do,
None other can please me or praise me as you.
Remember the world will be quick with its blames
If shadow or strain ever darken your name.

"Like Mother, Like Son", is a saying so true.
The world will judge largely of mother by you.
Be this then your task, if task
it may be,
To force this proud world to do homage to me,
Be sure it will say, when its verdict you've won,
She reaps as she showed—Lo!
this is her son.

Several months ago a small boy had a terrible cold that he had a hard time getting rid of, and the cold became just about the most important thing in his life.
Every night when he prayed the first thing after his prayer he would say: Jesus make my cold better," and then he would ask that his family be blessed, naming each one, and that Jesus help him to be a good boy the next day.
The cold completely disappeared weeks ago, but asking that Jesus make the cold better has become such a habit that it still goes into the prayer every night before everything else except the regular prayer.

Although the youngster goes to church regularly and perhaps has often noticed the large stained glass window with a picture of Jesus with angels on either side, this time he was a little more impressed. He looked at the window a while, wondering, and at a sudden he spoke his thoughts aloud—and they were loud, loud enough that everybody could hear:
"Is that," he said pointing to the window, "the Jesus who made my cold better?"—H.L.

Gets Degree He Almost Earned First in 1916

EMMITSBURG, Md. (P)—John Lenney, 81, oldest living alumnus of Mt. St. Mary's College, won't be able to attend the school reunion next week.

He'll be busy accepting a Doctor of Philosophy degree at Columbia University. Most of the requirements were filled by 1916. Then in 1948, after Lenney's wife died, he decided to finish up the job at Columbia.

A Tribute To Our Kiwanians!

The Kiwanis Club is essentially a service organization. And it serves our community faithfully without bombast or ballyhoo. These fine men with their weekly luncheon meetings, do a tremendous amount of good. You may hear little about their work among charitable institutions, but it goes on without interruption, and represents, here and throughout the world, one of the greatest combined good-will forces man has ever undertaken. Our Kiwanians are of the highest calibre. They are devoted to the cause of their widespread organization. They deserve the plaudits of every man and woman in this community!

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Cong. Bramblett's 'Security' Problem Began In 1947

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON—Congressman
Ernest Bramblett, Republican from Pacific Grove, Calif., faces some interesting new angles about the reason for keeping his wife on the payroll.

His official explanation, just recently uncoiled, is that Washington is so riddled with Communist spies he has to have someone who will keep secrets from leaking to the Communists.

In giving this alibi, however,
the congressman overlooked the fact that Mrs. Bramblett has been on his payroll for five long years.
She began drawing this dividend from the government in 1947, long before he was worried about Communists and before "loyalty" became an issue.

So perhaps when Congressman Bramblett talks about "security" what he really means is security for the family bankroll. Because he and his wife have drawn a total of $126,270.59 from the taxpayers during his six years in office. Her share of this is $36,- 270.59, her current salary being $707.67 a month or $8,492.04 a year—which is more than some FBI agents make.

Note—Since the congressman is only on the House Agriculture Committee, the only secrets that might leak out to the Russians pertain to potato scab, tobacco wildfire, tomato blight, witch's broom in lima beans or frogeye disease in soybeans.

Cautious Connally

Though Sen. Long Tom Connally will retire from Congress this year, he hasn't lost any of his contaminousness—as clearly indicated by a special presentation to George Stimpson, popular Washington newsman and author of many books, at a National Press Club gathering.

"It is my pleasure to present George with a beautiful watch," said Connally, "like one I bought in Geneva last summer."

"Why don't you get him an American watch?" piped up veteran editor Clarence Marshall of the Kiplinger News Letter.

"I haven't had time," shot back the senator from Texas, "and besides I wouldn't do it to please you."

That ended that.
Stimpson, who was being honored after 30 years as a Washington newsman, has just written a new book, "Book About American Politics," dedicated to Judge
Marvin Jones of Amarillo, Tex., now chief justice of the U.S. Court of Appeals.

Under the Dome

Mrs. Joe O'Mahoney, wife of the statesman senator from Wyoming, says she hopes her husband will be defeated. And she really seems to mean it. Mrs. O'Mahoney is tired of politics, tired of the thankless job of having her husband be a senator. . . . However, O'Mahoney would be badly missed in Washington, is one of the most conscientious leaders on Capitol Hill. . . . The Senate is taking a look at the appointment of Tom McCall to be postmaster at Lansford, Pa., due to the fact that his brother Pat is in income-tax trouble. Both brothers have been associated in the coal business.

Internal Revenue charges
Pat with being $60,000 short on his 1944 and 1945 taxes. . . . Tom McCall, who wants to be postmaster, claims his brother owned the coal business; he was only superintendent. . . . If Oliver Bolton is elected to Congress from Ohio, as he probably will, he will be Washington will see the first case of a mother and son serving in Congress together. His mother is able Mrs. Frances Bolton of Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

Key Senators
The fate of the President's veto on tidelands oil hangs on only a handful of votes. As a result, lobbyists are concentrating on a few senators—particularly such western Republicans as Ecton of Montana, Watkins of Utah, and Malone of Nevada.

They represent big inland states with nothing to gain if three states get control of the oil under the seacoasts, and hitherto they have voted with the President's.
They also know the schools of their states might benefit if tidelands oil goes to all 48 states.

Senator Malone of Nevada is being watched especially, because his assistant, Ben Whitehurst, once offered to lobby against the federal government on behalf of oil-rich Long Beach, Calif. White-hurst wanted $1,000 a month to do this job plus $50,000 if he was successful in taking tidelands oil away from the federal government. In the end, Long Beach didn't bite.

While his assistant was still negotiating for the deal, Senator Malone asked friendly questions of the Long Beach representatives while they were testifying before his Interior Committee.

But, after Long Beach didn't go for Whitehurst, Malone became quite emphatic about keeping tidelands oil under the federal government and away from California. Likewise he became chummy with E. L. Cord, former maker of Cord automobiles, who had invested heavily in Mexican and Civil War scrip. Veterans of those two wars, given this scrip, had the right to acquire any unclaimed land in the federal domain, but in recent years, some people, including Cord, have been buying up this scrip in order to claim tidelands oil. The Interior Department, however, has indicated that their claims will not be honored.

Mourning Era In Britain Has Ended

LONDON (P)—The official mourning period for King George VI came to a close Saturday midnight and Britons prepared for a gay summer as their austerity program will allow.
Women brought their brightest frocks out of the closet and men put away the dark neckties they have worn since their monarch died Feb. 6.

The crepe bands which thousands of citizens were wearing on their sleeves will disappear and the tempo of all activities in the British Commonwealth will quicken.

The greatest change, undoubtedly, will be in the life of 26-year-old Queen Elizabeth II. Social life, ceremonial and official duty will expand greatly, and if she does half of what is expected of her she will be about the busiest woman in her realm.

Most humbler Britons have recovered from the mourning mood, but persons in the higher social brackets have adjusted their pace to that of the court. Many parties have been delayed.

In the diplomatic corps the new era of light-heartedness will be touched off by the Embassy of Nepal, one of the mansions in Kensington Palace Gardens Millionaire's Row. The ambassador, Gen.
Shamsher Jang Bredur, Rama Shanker, will entertain 1,200 persons at a reception at which envoys' wives will have their first opportunity this year to wear summer frocks.

As the period of mourning passes and the Queen takes up the burdens of her position many Britons are resolved that she should not work as hard as her father who, many believe, would have lived longer if he had taken more leisure.

But good resolutions not withstanding, there will be terrific pressure on the Queen, who also has the job of raising two children.
A Buckingham Palace spokesman said that already her list of engagements is "formidable."

Blue-Gray March About Over; Fewer Than 12 Vets Survive

NEW YORK (P)—The long march of the Blue and the Gray is about over.

This Memorial Day fewer than a baker's dozen survive of the massed millions who fought in the American war of brother-against-brother that ended 87 years ago.

This long and bitter struggle played so important a role in our national story, it is still so close to us as a people, it seems incredible that soon even the last drummer boy who took part in it will have been swallowed up by time.

The earth is a tomb of many vanished armies, but few will live longer in memory than those that contended under the banners of the Federal Union and the Confederacy from 1861 to 1865. Those memories in many minds even now are like sensitive scar tissues.

Historians now class the War Between the States—known in Northern American communities as the Civil War—as the first modern war, and certainly it made many changes in the art of battle both afoot and at sea.

It truly was a big war, considering the population at the time.
The North threw 2,488 men into action and suffered 349,944 casualties. The number of troops on the South's side is debatable. Northern historians put the figure as high as 1,400,000 out of a white population of only five million. Estimates by Southern historians go as low as 600,000. Woodrow Wilson said the South put 900,000 men in the field and placed their losses in killed and wounded at 133,821.

As in most wars before the development of sanitation techniques, disease took more lives than bullets. The North, for example, lost only about 110,000 men from combat wounds. It lost nearly 200,000 through diseases.

The cost of the war is still going on, mainly now in the form of payments to the widows of veterans. But every once in a while someone still tries to get the government to pay for a mule that one of U. S. Grant's men in Blue stole from his great, great granddaddy's farm.

The North ended the war by the grinding weight of superior manpower and industrial might. But although finally worn down, the South managed to emerge with most of the heroes.

Alias Basil Willing

By Helen McCloy

THE STORY: Jack Duggan, a private detective, is murdered and Miss Katherine Shaw, aged 4 and blind, dies under mysterious circumstances following a dinner at the home of Dr. Zimmer. Later the poet Stephen Lawrence is poisoned by cocaine, but not fatally.
A clue leads Basil Willing, who was drawn into the case because Duggan used Basil's name as an alias, traces a clue left by Miss Shaw to a dingy neighborhood on "Warwick Street." There he learns that Duggan had rented a room in a condemned building several months before. Duggan's last words concerned a place where "no birds sing" and as Basil mounts the stairs he is aware of silence all about the place.

XXIX
BASIL WILLING'S footfalls were loud as he walked toward a door on the top floor in the rear wall labeled 4-C.

The light was so dim he had to light a match. He saw plaster walls, yellowed, nicked, veined with cracks. The brass on the door knob was dented and tarnished.

He tried the knob. The door was locked. He tried Duggan's spare key in the lock. It turned smoothly as if there were oil inside. He pushed the door open.
His heart jumped as he saw something huddled on the floor in one corner. But it was only a heap of blankets. There was nothing within four bare walls except the blankets and one window.

It was a sash window without a shade or curtain. Basil crossed the floor to look out. A rusty iron fire-escape of the oldest type zigzagged past the dusty pane.
Through a gap in the railing of the fire-escape, he looked down diagonally upon a patch of green turf and a crumbling stone basin where water glistened—a bird bath.

He unlatched the window and raised the sash hoping to see more clearly below, but the window was too small, the fire escape too obstructive. Suddenly he was aware of a stir and chill in the air, a dimming of the light. He lifted his eyes and looked over the fire-escape. Window panes of houses on the other side of the block flashed with a reflection like firelight. Beyond his range of vision, the sun was setting.

Somewhere the chirp of a sparrow sounded—a drowsy trill like a trickle of water. But the familiar sound was as far away as the distant rumble of traffic. Here, where Basil stood, the world seemed locked in a sullen, enchanted stillness and the twilight scene below him was voiceless as an ap-position. The patch of turf was thick and unusually green. Worms would feed there and seeds would drift in on the wind, but the water in the stone basin was stagnant and no bird sang.

Basil closed the window and hurried to the door. He must leave the house before darkness fell. Already it was almost night on the rickety stair. He groped his way cautiously down the first flight. Then he had to light more matches. Once he paused. A floor board creaking below? Who could tell in a house like this?

On the ground floor it was utility dark. He'd used up his matches. He felt his way along the wall to the front door and opened it. A woman cried out. He was looking directly into the eyes of Perdita Lawrence.

"Dr. Willing! You—you startled me. I thought that house was condemned."

"It is." He closed the door without further explanation.

She was standing beside the cobble's shop. She took a step backward as he advanced. He spoke.

"I didn't expect to see you any more than you expected to see me."
"I—was just passing. I happened to be in the neighborhood."

Was it the weak light from the street lamp at the corner that made her face so pallid? Her eyes were wide and blank, as if she were no longer aware of him.

"I'm afraid I'll have to ask you just what you were doing in this

Bob Thomas in Hollywood—

Dick Widmark, 'Good Guy' 5 Years, to Be 'Meanie' Again

HOLLYWOOD — After being a good guy for five years, Richard Widmark is going back to the meanie role that made him a star. "It's Tommy Udo all over again," remarked Widmark about his role in O. Henry's "Badged on the Subway." "I have the same sneer and they even brought out the same hairpiece for me to wear."

Tommy Udo was the double-ugly character the actor played in "Kiss of Death." What a rat he was! One of his diversions was pushing an old lady down a flight of stairs in her wheelchair. Tommy is back with us again, and there's no telling what effect he'll have on Widmark's fans.

After all, the youngsters have seen the blonde actor winning wars, fighting forest fires, combating disease and performing other acts of valor.

"It will be interesting to see what the reaction will be," he observed. "A whole new group of movie goers has grown up since I did Tommy Udo five years ago. I don't know how they'll take it."

Right now Widmark is more concerned about personal matters, particularly his relations with his studio. He has made no secret that he is not happy with his present contract, although he has not yet moved toward open revolt. He is still working under the original pact, and he reportedly feels he deserves more money.

"I'll never sign another exclusive contract," he remarked. "It's all right for some one starting out to get tied down to one studio, because the studio will build the personality. But after you've gotten started, you miss freedom. I've done 16 pictures in five years, and I've had to take the bad with the good."

The Widmark deal still has two years to go, but it may well be adjusted before the expiration date.

What's wrong with movie musicals? The music, for one thing.

Look over the hit tunes in the past few years and see how many of them have originated in new film musicals. Very darn few. The reason is, that most of the films are tuned up with songs dug out of the catalogues. Offhand, I can't think of a good new musical score in films since Rodgers and Hammerstein lent their genius to "State Fair."

The good song writers are still in business. Song hits have to come from somewhere. So why don't producers try for whistleable new scores instead of digging out the oldies? Best news in this line is that Harold Arlen and Dorothy Fields have whipped up a score for "The Farmer Takes a Wife." Also, Irving Berlin is reportedly composing a film for Bing Crosby and Fred Astaire. Let's have more.

Capsule review: "Kangaroo" can best be classified as an Australian Western. There's little in

Mules Going To Dogs, As Puppy Food

WASHINGTON — The mule, a southern congressman observed today, is going to the dogs. In fact, most of them already have gone there as dog food, at two cents a pound.

Rep. John Rankin (D-Miss) described to a reporter sadly how talent scouts for pet caterers have swarmed into the cotton belt and toted away the hard-tailed ornaments of Dixie's mule barns.

The mule, he said, is a casualty of the machine age. It took on the tractor, and the tractor won. The new South can hardly spare zoo room for a hammer-headed hybrid whose carburetion system burns timothy and oats needed for an expanding dairy industry.

Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo), whose district tailored a special heavy-duty cotton field mule to planters' specifications, confirmed that the tractor had almost completely displaced it.

"The bottom has dropped out of the mule market," the Missourian mourned. "For a majority of the farmers in my country, mules were once the big cash crop. Now the mule industry has practically disappeared."

It was difficult to determine who felt worse about the passing of the mule age—Cannon, whose grandfather before him raised the animals, or Rankin, who as a youth followed old Beck around a cotton patch between the handles of a middle-buster plow.

Rankin conceded that the economics of modern day farming give the tractor a big edge.

"A tractor doesn't cost a darn thing except when you're running it," he pointed out. "But you've got to feed a mule all the time."

Rep. Richard Bolling (D-Mo), whose home town of Kansas City formerly was one of the world's

"Look up the record of the mule in World War II," he advised. "Find out who built the Burma Road and who hauled the artillery over the Italian mountains. Remember that no mule has ever engaged in a dormitory raid or written a singing commercial."

Rep. Robert L. Doughton (D-NC), whose nickname is "Muley," could not be reached for comment.

Skilled Refugees Go Jobless In Hong Kong

HONG KONG BOTTLENECK—Lined up along the railroad tracks that connect Hong Kong with the Red Chinese mainland, refugees await inspection before entering the last tiny spot of freedom in China.

By GERALDINE FITCH
NEA Special Correspondent
HONG KONG (NEA) — The Western world is missing a good bet here in the relentless propaganda war with the Communists for the minds of millions of Asiatics.

Both the United States and Britain are failing to put to proper use the services of thousands of Chinese intellectuals who have fled from Communist China to this British crown colony, last tiny spot of freedom on the Chinese mainland.

Three factors make the situation more serious than it might first appear.

1. The Chinese Reds, operating from their headquarters in Hong Kong's Bank of China building are making a strong bid for the highly-trained technical and literary refugees.

2. Half of the 10,000 to 50,000 of them are destitute, some are starving, and a number have committed suicide.

3. There appear to be ways in which America and Britain could use the services of these refugees, both as anti-Communist propagandists and as development technicians. This would serve the double purpose of providing them with a means of livelihood and of their doing constructive work for the cause of freedom and democracy.

One idea that has been put forward is that the many skilled writers among the refugees be put to work producing magazines, books, plays, radio programs, and movies which tell the story of freedom and expose the terrors of Communism to millions of other Asiatics.

There's a use, too, for the technicians among the refugees, and there are hundreds, perhaps thousands, of them. The Western World now has in operation a number of programs for improving the general welfare of people in southeast Asia.

They include America's Point Four program, the United Nations Technical Assistance Administration, and Britain's Colombo Plan for cooperative economic development. All need civil, mechanical, electrical and chemical engineers. Refugee roles are packed with the names of technicians of just the types wanted.

At least 3,000 of the refugees are graduates of American colleges and universities.

A random sampling of the lists turns up such men as these:

Pei-yen Chao, 30, has two degrees from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and practical experience in the United States with the International Harvester Co., the Lindberg Steel Treating Co., the Whittin Machine Works, and the Harvill (metallurgical) Corp. But Chao can find no work in Hong Kong.

Edward Chow, 31, has a master's degree from Columbia University, and was a designer with the Barrett Engineering Co. and visiting engineer of the Maryland State Roads Commission. In Hong Kong Chow is jobless.

C. K. Ho, 49, a graduate of Lehigh and Ohio State universities, has had more than 20 years' experience in coal and metal mining in China, and once worked for the Arthur G. McKee Co. in the United States. But he has no job in Hong Kong.

Before being too critical of the refugee situation in Hong Kong, it is necessary to know something of the extraordinary conditions there.

Normally a city of 800,000, it has had dumped on it in recent years a million and a half refugees from Red China. Such abnormal expansion would be a well nigh insupportable load for even the soundest city.

But Hong Kong cannot be called sound today. Her vital trade with the Chinese mainland has been drastically cut. Jobs are hard to find. Housing is completely inadequate despite new British housing projects.

Refugees are living in thousands of makeshift huts of mud, grass-matting and burlap. They are jammed up several in a room. Most have no money and no way to earn any.

Certain British restrictions don't help the unemployment problem any. For example, only British-registered doctors can practice medicine. Only British-educated professors can teach at the University of Hong Kong. Only British are employed in all but the lowest jobs in many businesses.

Aside from the practical advantages of putting the refugees to work in a good cause, there is the compelling need for action from a purely humane standpoint. The refugees fled from the Reds because they preferred democracy. But the advantages of democracy can be obscured by starvation.

However, some new hope for the refugees lies in an organization recently formed in the United States. It is called ARCII (Aid Refugee Chinese Intellectuals) and its chairman is Representative Walter Judd, Republican of Minnesota, a former missionary doctor in China. The Committee's headquarters are at 537 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Purpose of the Committee will be to find jobs and homes for the refugees, both in Hong Kong and in other parts of the world where their talents can be used.

Buso on Rochester Back from Far East
Among the Navy men aboard the heavy cruiser USS Rochester when she returned to the United States early this month was Enrique B. Buso, fireman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Buso, 315 East Harvey, Sedalia.

While operating in the Far East on her second tour of combat duty, the Rochester patrolled the Korean shore line from Chongjin on the east coast to the Yalu River area on the west, shelling enemy shore installations and supply depots.

Most violent earthquake in history happened at Assam, India, on June 12, 1897. There was complete destruction over an area of about 9,000 square miles, while the area of moderate destruction covered 150,000 square miles. Great changes in topography were produced.

United Nations ships fighting in Korea have found that "A stitch in time saves nine," especially when the patching is done by the repair ship USS Jason, with such men aboard as Merle L. Kettle, electrician's mate, second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman R. Kettle and husband of Mrs. Sally M. Kettle, all of 713 East 15th, Sedalia.

After 10 months in Korea, the Jason will be leaving for home in the early part of June. The Jason has played an important role in keeping ships of the United Nations in top combat condition, ranging from minesweepers to aircraft carriers of England, Canada, Australia, the Netherlands, Colombia and the Republic of Korea.

Seek a Plan For All-Basin River Work

CONCORDIA—Noel T. Tweet, executive director of the Missouri-Kansas Basin Flood Control Association, the parent organization of the local Blackwater-Lamine Flood Control Association, attended the initial meeting of the Missouri Basin Survey Commission in Sioux City, Ia., recently and reported that the principal objective of the commission is to find out the best way to administer the vast, many-sided effort to control and conserve the water and soil resources of the basin.

Testimony of 22 witnesses and discussion with commission members, some of them congressmen, brook forth virtually a complete review of all the problems and proposals concerning every aspect of flood control, soil conservation, irrigation, navigation, forestry and power production of the basin in the last 20 years.

The commission's aim was not to determine how best to harness the Missouri and its tributaries. Rather the commissioners sought suggestions for an over-all administrative organization that could coordinate and integrate the work of all government bureaus and agencies to save money, use it speedily where necessary and prevent overlapping work.

In his opening statement Chairman Lawrence stressed that they were not there to make promises nor to engage in controversy but to develop a long range plan for the proper development of the basin.

Mr. Tweet, in summarizing all the testimony given, said that there were very few of the witnesses that were in favor of an authority program of the T. V. A. type but were very anxious to arrive at an over-all plan that would complete the whole water and soil resources program in the near future and especially the problems involved with flood control.

Believers, Disbelievers, Just Middlin' Views on Rainmaking

DENVER — Rainmaking is again being done on a large scale in the West, is a hot issue among residents.

Some believe clouds can be seeded with dry ice or silver iodide to increase rainfall or control hail. Others are unconvinced. Some end up in the middle.

"Most of the cattlemen feel that a lot of good has been done," they Norman A. Good, secretary of the Southwestern Nebraska Weather Improvement Association.

But, He continued, "the majority of the people who went into this thing in the spring of 1951 were possibly too enthusiastic."

Clell C. Elwood, manager of the Northwest Nebraska Water Development Corp., said many wheat farmers "told me they would have sold their prospects very cheap on May 15." However, "The rain they received after the rain started gave them one of the best yields they have ever had."

A preliminary report of the Colorado A&M College evaluation of cloud seeding in Northern Colorado concluded, "There was no apparent increase in precipitation." But the report also noted, "There is no proof that possible good results cannot be brought about by artificial cloud seeding."

The research organization of the Commercial Seeding Company, which operated in the area, also reported results were not good (because cloudy conditions were poor for seeding) but even so there was a "probable" increase of 0 to 5 per cent over the rain that would have fallen "naturally."

At least 15 banks in Northwest South Dakota and Southwest North Dakota urged cloud-seeding be tried again because it showed "considerable merit and promise."

After a survey of 1951 operations, the South Dakota Natural Resources Commission and State College reported:

"Participants believe they got their money's worth. They also believe that it will take more than one year to prove anything."

Rainmaking is highly controversial in Washington state. Dry farmers want rain and they contract for cloud seeding. Cherry growers in adjacent areas don't want rain, especially in the June ripening season. Rain splits cherries.

The cherry growers are launching weather control research and assessing themselves $1 a ton on the 1952 crop to finance operations. At least one meteorologist in the state claimed success in dissipating rain clouds by over-seeding them with silver iodide.

In parts of West and Central Texas parched by drought, farmers watching their 'and burn up for lack of moisture contracted for rainmaking with a "what have we to lose" attitude.

Other Texans want nature left alone. One reader wrote the Big Spring Herald that cloud seeding is "messing with the Lord's business." Some wrote the Waco Times-Herald that rain increases better look out for the wrath of God.

At 8 p. m. Bruce Ulmer met with the handicraft group and each member worked on his project. Refreshments were served.

Potato Festival Has Spuds, Guard Out to Guard 'Em
ELIZABETH CITY, N. C. — Armed sentries kept watch over four tons of potatoes piled on the Elizabeth City courthouse lawn last night.

The potatoes occupy the featured role in today's annual potato festival here.

A late season threatened to leave the festival without a potato to its name. But through the co-operation of growers and warehousemen, the potatoes arrived in time to be served as french fries today—free of charge. The shortage prompted officials to arrange for a National Guard company to stand watch over the potatoes until they were processed for cooking.

Festival attractions such as a 20-band parade, a two-day speedboat regatta and a state championship baton twirling contest will honor king potato.

More and CLEANER GRAIN with a Massey-Harris Clipper

The Massey-Harris Clipper gives you greater threshing capacity. Your grain is never crowded or jammed through cylinders and across screens. There's no bunching or slugging. Straw moves straight through the Clipper in a light, even blanket. More grain is taken from the straw... and it's thoroughly cleaned before it's elevated to the tank.

Come in next time you're in town and let us tell you more about the Massey-Harris Clipper that handles more than 110 different crops. Make your own comparison.
